

Terms, conditions and privacy policy

1. About Cybersecurity-law

- Franck Dumortier (www.cybersecurity-law.be) is self-employed under Belgian law, established and principally seated at the Avenue Général Bernheim 69, B-1040 Brussels. Franck Dumortier's enterprise number is 0671.736.579.

2. Communication policy

- Any electronic communication, including any attached files, sent from or to Franck Dumortier is confidential and may be privileged or subject to other restrictions. If you are not the intended recipient of an electronic message, please notify the sender of his mistake and remove the message from your system. We thank you for your cooperation.
- The security of electronic communications cannot be ensured; Franck Dumortier cannot be held responsible in any way in this regard.
- Any outgoing or incoming electronic communication may be checked and verified for compliance with our internal policies and to protect the business interests of Franck Dumortier.
- Folders containing electronic communication may be archived by Franck Dumortier for internal purposes and to ensure compliance with applicable regulations.

3. Use of our website

- This website (www.cybersecurity-law.be) is the property of Franck Dumortier and is protected by copyright and as a database. The reproduction of the website as a whole or in part is only permitted for personal use. The copying, storage or transmission of this website or parts thereof for any other reason is not permitted without the written permission of Franck Dumortier.
- Any contents spread through this website are made available purely for informational purposes, and Franck Dumortier cannot be held responsible for any other use thereof. If you require specific legal assistance, please consult a suitably qualified lawyer to obtain appropriate legal advice.
- You may link to this website in a fair and non-confusing manner, provided that you also mention a link to our home page (www.cybersecurity-law.be) when doing so, and that you link to our website for non-commercial purposes only. Franck Dumortier cannot be held liable for the contents of external websites linked through this website, or linking to this website.
- Information on the www.cybersecurity-law.be website may be updated or modified frequently.

4. Privacy statement

- The main purpose of our website is not to collect any personal data. However, the processing of users' IP addresses and information related to their browser versions are being carried out for the legitimate interest of Franck Dumortier or his hosting company (OVH) to ensure cybersecurity in the sense of Article 32 and Recital 49 of the GDPR.

- Any personal data collected through this website will be processed by Franck Dumortier in accordance with applicable data protection regulations. Personal data will never be transferred to third parties without your prior consent or other legal basis.
- Notwithstanding the obligations incumbent on Franck Dumortier based legally binding provisions, Franck Dumortier will never intentionally reveal personal data allowing the deduction of your identity to any third parties, including your e-mail address, without your prior consent or other legal basis.
- You have the right to access any personal data regarding yourself being processed by Franck Dumortier, and to demand the correction or removal of any incorrect, incomplete or irrelevant data. You can exercise these rights by submitting a written request to this effect to us. You also have the right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority: <https://www.autoriteprotectiondonnees.be/>
- We respect the confidentiality of your e-mail, and will never send unsolicited mail from the cybersecurity-law.be domain.

7. Contact information and updates

- If you have any questions in relation to the aforementioned legal information, please contact us via franck.dumortier@cybersecurity-law.be.
- This legal notice may be updated from time to time. We recommend to check the cybersecurity-law.be website regularly for any updates.

8. Applicable law and dispute resolution

- The aforementioned legal provisions are subject to Belgian law.
- Any dispute in relation to the cybersecurity-law.be website will fall under the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of Brussels, except in case of contrary legal provisions.

Brussels, 2 Februari 2020